Judge Votes 'Yes' Then 'No'

Cities Almost Get Taxes Cut

City property owners in Randall County almost had a county-tax cut Monday afternoon, but Judge Roy Joe Stevens switched his tie-breaking vote and killed the tax cut motion.

The court was tied with a two-two vote on a motion to lower valuations on city property with a real value of $15,000 or less by 25 per cent. Stevens voted in favor of the motion, with the reservations the move would be legal and that the tax roll could be completed on time.

Criminal District Atty A. W. Lair ventured the opinion that the court could equalize valuations at any time during the year, and Tax Collector Bill Money said the roll might be gotten out with extra help.

Taking that as approval of the tax-cutting motion, reporters left the meeting. Later, the discussion continued. Lair changed his opinion slightly and Money said he had grave doubts that the roll could be completed, even with extra help.

Judge Stevens then changed his vote on the motion to "No," and killed the tax cut.

The result of the motion would have been that a house with a real value of $15,000 would be reduced on the tax roll to a real value of $11,250. The county uses 20 per cent of the real value as a taxable value, and the rate is $1.20 per hundred dollar valuation. The tax to have been paid on the $15,000 house next year would have been $27 rather than $36 this year.

The deliberation on the tax reduction motion began before noon. C. Y. Johnson, commissioner of Precinct 4, asked Bill Money, tax collector, if he had stated during an equalization meeting that city property should be lowered 50 per cent to equalize taxes. Money agreed.

Johnson then asked Bailie McCormick, commissioner of Precinct 1, if he had said that taxes would be more equal if the judge would vote off a tie. McCormick agreed. The members of the court were passing around a copy of last week's Canyon News, and could check their statements.

Johnson then said he was ready for the judge to break a tie. McCormick said that before that happened he had a motion to make. He moved that valuations on city residential property valued at $25,000 or less be reduced 20 per cent in valuation. He said his motion would exclude apartments and business houses.

Johnson objected that he was attempting to making a motion when McCormick made his. Johnson then moved that valuations on all city property be lowered 50 per cent.

The discussion started from there, and it was obvious that Commissioners Clarence Beckman, Precinct 2, and Glen Dowlen, Precinct 3, were against the motions while McCormick and Johnson were favoring a cut in valuations for city property.

The court asked Money and Auditor E. T. Cummings what the proposed valuation cuts would "cost" the county and neither was able to supply an answer without consulting the records. The court recessed at noon.

Following the noon recess, Cummings reported that valuations in the cities are $15,568,000 and are $5,721,460 in the country. Other valuation totals are $4,836,000 for personal property, $446,000 for railroads, $1,313,800 for public utilities, $976,700 for pipelines and $43,000 for bank stock.

Prompted by Money, Commissioner McCormick amended his motion to a cut of 25 per cent on city property valued at $15,000 or less except that no real property would be valued at less than $40. Then he changed again to the final motion. Neither his motion nor Johnson's had been seconded.

The court dropped the subject to receive appraisal figures for the last four pieces of property needed for the Amarillo-to-Canyon expressway from Knox Parr, representative of the Texas Highway Department.

About 4 p. m., it appeared that Johnson would second McCormick's motion and Judge Stevens would have to break the tie vote. The judge asked McCormick and Money why they picked the $15,000 figure and said he could not vote for the motion unless the figure could be defended on good grounds.

Money said that $15,000 is the figure that allows homestead exemptions. A $15,000 house on the rolls has a $3,000 taxable valuation —the amount of the homestead exemption.

Cummings was asked how much tax money would be lost if the motion was adopted. He estimated that between $30,000 and $40,000 would be the loss and said it was impossible to estimate closer because there were no figures available on the number of pieces of property that would fall in the area below $15,000. He said Johnson's motion to cut all city property 50 per cent would represent a loss in tax receipts of $48,000.

He was asked if the county could operate with such a loss in revenue and said that it could but there would be no surplus at the end of the year. Earlier this year, when the court set the tax rate, he had advocated a cut of 5 cents in the rate—meaning a lowering of revenue of about $15,500. At that time he said the county would be able to operate with that cut.

The court, at that time, decided that the 5 cents should be applied to the road and bridge funds in order to pay off right of way refunding bonds issued during the past two years.

At about 4:30 p. m., the judge called for a vote and obtained two "no" votes from Dowlen and Beckman. He then voted for the motion, but said it was a "haphazard, sloppy way to handle the problem."

★

The judge qualified his vote by saying it depended on the legality of the change and if the tax roll could be processed and readied in time for October collections.

★

Criminal Dist. Atty. A. W. Lair offered the opinion that the cut in valuations is legal. Money said that it would require a lot of work to make the necessary changes in the tax roll, and it might require three crews working around the clock. He said the roll must be finished and mailed to the state comptroller by the first week in September in order for the taxes to be collected in October.

Ya Shudda Seen The Big One . . .

Not all of the big ones get away.

B. T. Stokes, 1809 Sixth Avenue, can testify to that.

Stokes caught a 35-pound salt water drum while fishing near Rockport, north of Corpus Christi. He caught the 40-inch fish on a 36-pound test line about 12:30 a. m., and three other men aided Stokes in landing it.

Stokes believes the fish would have weighed 40 pounds if it had been weighed soon after it was caught, since it is supposed to weigh one pound for each inch; however, the fish was not weighed until about 8:30.

Evans Services Conducted Friday

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Frances Evans were held at 3 p. m. Friday in Warren-LaGrone Funeral Chapel.

A long time resident of the Fairview community, Mrs. Evans died at 1:30 p. m. Thursday in her home here.

Officiating was Charles Pierce, pastor of the Fairview Baptist Church, of which Mrs. Evans was a member, with the Rev. Strauss Atkinson, pastor of the First Baptist Church, and Rev. A. J. Pettit, pastor of the Assembly of God, assisting.

Pallbearers were Gene Shipman, Standley Schaeffer, Foy Moudy, Don Schaeffer, Tom Moudy and Frank Rogers. Burial was in the Wayside Community Cemetery.

Mrs. Evans was born Dec. 12, 1868, in Hot Springs County, Ark., and was married in 1884 to the late Henry Crawford Evans in Nevada County, Ark. The couple moved in 1890 to Randall County, where Mr. Evans was a farmer and rancher.

Surviving are five daughters, Mrs. Dora Mattie Wann of Tuolumne, Calif., Mrs. Anna Alma Wesley and Mrs. Lizzie May Wesley, both of Fairview, Mrs. Texie Dollie Schaeffer of Canyon, Mrs. Willie Elna Robert of Albuquerque, N. M.; one son, Silas of Happy; 29 grandchildren, 72 great-grandchildren and 28 great-great-grandchildren.

City Club Road Crash Kills One, Injures Three Saturday Night

An Amarillo girl was killed and three other youths were injured early Saturday morning in a car wreck on the Canyon City Club road west of town. The wreck was discovered about two hours later by a former California highway patrolman.

Funeral services for Mona Rae Hintz, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman W. Hintz of Amarillo, were scheduled Tuesday morning in Brookings, S. D.

Injured in the wreck were Tony Conrad Huckaby, 18, driver of the car, A. B. Fincher, 19, both of Amarillo, and Frances Russ, 16, of Vega. All were considered in good condition in Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

Huckaby's car failed to negotiate the 90-degree curve at the entrance to the club grounds and ran into a gully. The tires left skid marks on the pavement which led to the discovery of the wreck.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Braafladt of Amarillo were on their way to their cabin about 2:30 a. m. when they saw the skid marks. The wreck occurred shortly after midnight.

Braafladt investigated the marks and discovered the car in the gully. He called for aid and the three injured youths were taken to the hospital. Miss Hintz's body was pinned in the wreckage.

The body was brought to Warren-LaGrone Funeral Chapel.

Miss Hintz was born in Estilline, S. D., and the family moved to Amarillo seven years ago. She would have been a senior in Palo Duro High School next year.

In addition to her parents, survivors include a sister, Mrs. Marlys Ann Holt, Amarillo, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Laabs, Watertown, S. D., and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hintz, Zolga, S. D

Museum Has Taos Art Exhibition

A dozen large oil paintings by three famed Western artists, all members of the Taos Society of Artists, have gone on exhibit in the Gallery of Fine Arts at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum. The exhibit will remain on display until Aug. 15.

Nine of the works are those of Joseph Henry Sharp, probably the most noted Western artist in American history and one of the greatest of this nation's artists. One painting is by Irving Couse and two are by E. Martin Hennings.

★

The valuable paintings were loaned to the museum by Mrs. Jane Hiatt, owner of the Village Gallery in Taos. The nine Sharp paintings are among only 32 of his works for sale, and the one canvas by Couse is among only four remaining for sale of his works, according to C. Boone McClure, director of the museum.

The Couse painting, titled "The Water Jug," depicts an Indian drinking from a jug beside a stream. The Hennings' paintings, "Branding" and "Along the Puebla Stream," portray a branding scene and a group of Indians walking beside a creek.

Two of the Sharp works were painted while he was in Hawaii and are seascapes titled "Rhythm of the Waves" and "Marine Near Honolulu." Two others are landscapes showing a hillside which emphasizes the brilliant yellow colors of the aspens.

The remaining five paintings depict Indian life, works for which Sharp was most noted. One, "War Chief," is a portrait of a chieftain in his war bonnet, and another is a hunter with bow and arrow stalking game. "October Snow Squall," "Crow Encampment on the Little Big Horn" and "The Chief's Lodge" depict Indian camp life.

★

Sharp, a native of Ohio, studied art in Cincinnati and in the art centers of Europe, including Antwerp, Munich, Paris and Madrid. Before going to the West, Sharp taught for ten years at the Cincinnati Art Academy.

The artist painted the most noted Indians of all tribes, particularly some 200 of the old Custer battle warriors, and for 37 years he painted many genre, historical and home life sketches of Indians.

His works have been exhibited all over the world, and among collections of his paintings are those in the Smithsonian Institute, University of California, Indianapolis Art Museum, Santa Fe Museum, Butler Art Museum, and many others. His works are also to be found in the more noted private collections in the nation.

Sharp was a charter member of the Taos Society of Artists, and a member of the Society of Western Artists, Cincinnati Art Club, California Art Club, Artists' Guild of Chicago, Salmagundi Club of New York City, and the Print Makers' Club of Los Angeles.

Voters Adopt City Charter

Canyon's new city commissioners will take office next Monday night following canvassing of the vote Tuesday that adopted a Home Rule Charter by a vote of 271-101.

Mayor Charles Donnell said the canvassing of the election returns by the old commission will be set for Monday night, and the two additional commissioners will be sworn in then.

Elected in the vote Tuesday were John A. Williams for Place Four and Delbert Lowes for Place Five.

Williams, unopposed on the ballot, gained 339 votes. M. L. Sherrod had 17 write-in votes for the post.

Lowes received 295 votes and his opponent, J. C. Newton, received 51 votes.

The new charter cannot go into effect until the returns of the election have been canvassed and declared official by the old commission. Members are Mayor Donnell, John P. Taylor and Lowell Harrison. Harrison is out of town and will not be present for the canvassing meeting.

The new Home Rule Charter calls for a five-member commission. The terms of office of the present three members will run until next April, while those of the two elected Tuesday will run until April, 1961.

Tax Man Reports Machine Fault

Tax Collector Bill Money reported to the Randall County Commissioners Court Monday morning that the addressing machine purchased last winter does not appear to be doing the intended job.

Money said company representatives were scheduled to work on the machine Tuesday morning, and suggested that if the machine does not show up to par that a suit be instituted by the county.

He suggested that the county sue for the $7,300 paid for the machine plus damages incurred because of the time and materials spent in preparing metal stencils for addresses.

Tuesday afternoon, Money said that the representatives had been working, but the addresses on the forms were still not sufficiently good. He said the machine must prepare an original and two copies of addresses and property descriptions on the tax roll and an original and four copies of statements, receipts and rendition forms.

"None of us knew when we bought the machine what it was like, but we knew the job it needed to do. We told the company what we wanted and they assured us that the addressing machine would do the job," he said.

Money said that if the machine does not do the job, the rolls and other forms must be typed by hand as they have been done in previous years. He said that if the typing job was needed, his office should have started weeks ago.

The commissioners court took no action on Money's suggestion.

What's in the Future?

We've had any number of suggestions about what to write in our final editorial in the Canyon News. Most have dealt with a subject close to the interest of the person making the suggestion. Most have been sort of asking for a progress report or an accolade.

But we think a look in the future might be in order. Not that we could be considered a prophet by any means, but many things point to what can come.

We think the greatest need for the future is a meeting of minds and ideas among the people living in Canyon and in the countryside. We think all need to take a greater interest in what each other is doing, and in what the people are doing collectively in government.

We predict that not many over 400 people will vote in the charter election. This is being written Monday, and will be printed hours before the polls open. The charter election is an opportunity for the people to say what kind of government they want, yet less than half the qualified voters will speak up we predict.

In future elections, the people here need to inform themselves on all issues and candidates, and then do a little legwork to convince others of their decisions. And ultimately, the people need to make a short visit to the polls on election day.

We think that there is going to be a battle between city and country residents in the not too distant future. Before that happens, we believe that enlightened citizens should see to it that the problems confronting each group are aired so that each group will have an opportunity to understand—then maybe there won't be any battle.

The greatest asset Canyon has is its people. (That's almost a trite statement, but it holds true here and everywhere else.) If the people here do not learn to cooperate and look for ways to help others, the economic and cultural future of Canyon will not be so bright.

As graduation speakers like to say: The future is in your hands. Make the most of it.

Biggest Help

If it hadn't been for two men, especially, there might not have been any lights at the Babe Ruth ball park.

George Gibson of Southwestern Bell and Dick Ziegler of Southwestern Public Service have been the guides in the erection of the lighting system. Their experience in setting and rigging poles has been invaluable, and their abilities while swinging from the top of a pole could not have been replaced.

Good Idea, But . . .

One of the sheriff's deputies told us the other day that our idea about hiring a deputy to drive you to a fishing hole for the weekend is a mighty good one, except:

The deputies get only two days a month off the job, and it might be hard to schedule a fishing trip that way.

What Our Neighbors Say . . .

Scissor Snippings

Harold Hudson in he Ochiltree County Herald: City and County officials have been discussing the question of taxing. While most of us will agree that taxes are too high, regardless of how much or what for, there is an element of equalization that ought to be considered.

The county assesses city property at 20 per cent of its market value, which is probably fair enough. But the county takes a different—far different—view of assessing farm land. According to the scale, the highest land in the county, level farm land on pavement, is assessed at $9.90 per acre. Other wheat land is put on the rolls at$7, and the values go down to $3 on grassland.

This means that the Hudson residence, a frame structure, is put on the county tax rolls at $14,400 and is taxed on this basis. Figuring it at the 20 per cent figure, the tax is on $2,880 which makes our house worth just exactly 316.8 acres of level wheat land on pavement. Call it half section. We hereby give notice that our house is up for swap on this basis. The line will please form at the right.

Ernest Joiner in the Ralls Banner: On page 2 is an editorial suggesting Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield keep his cotton picking fingers out of selecting my reading material. (The editorial condemns Summerfield for banning from the mails the novel "Lady Chatterley's Lover" by D. H. Lawrence, a classic novel—The Editor) Right on the heels of this prime insult, I am harboring libelous thoughts about the American Gas Association, which did a fine job of censoring Playhouse 90's recent television production, "Judgment at Nuremberg."

During the play, all references to "death in the gas chamber" were silenced. Viewers could see the actor's lips moving, but couldn't hear the words.

The American Gas Association was a sponsor of this production, and enforced censorship on this reference—because it might give gas an unpleasant connotation in the infantile mind of America. Dammit, gas is unpleasant. It stinks, to begin with; and it's a deadly poison, to end with.

Only last month it blew up a house in San Angelo, and my old man with it, and he's been hospitalized to death and $1,600 because of it. I ought to sue the gas jets off the whole careless kaboodle.

Folks kill themselves by sticking their heads in gas-fired ovens, and some villian is always tippytoeing into his mother-in-law's bedroom to open a gas jet.

Since nobody on Playhouse 90 mentioned what kind of gas was used in the gas chamber, I presume the AGA is carrying the banner for all types of gas. In which case, I am constrained to demand, what is AGA going to do about the gas on my stomach? Are you against Tums and Bi-So-Dol? No, you just want I should shut up about gas on the stomach, don't you?

Okay, I'll be quiet and try to remember only the sweet things about gas: how it burns evenly and cleanly and keeps cakes from falling, how it heats the house healthfully and how gas ought to pay more taxes in Texas.

A. M. Jackson in the Slaton Slatonite: One night last week I got so sleepy about nine o'clock I could not hold my eye lids open so I flopped in bed and went into sweet dreams only to wake up at twelve and start twisting and turning, counting sheep, mules, redheaded women, pop-eyed men and ten dollar bills did no good what ever so I got to telling myself old jokes I had heard in the past.

Those about unfortunate people or making fun of misfortunes are not my favorites but I could not help but smile a little to myself, here in the dark, about one I remembered from years ago about a man who was in the insane asylum.

The physician in charge came around one morning and after examining him, told him that he had improved a lot and could write his people he would be allowed to come home in two weeks.

The poor fellow sat down at a table, wrote his letter, addressed his envelope, sealed it and licked his stamp. As he brought it down from his lips a cockroach ran across the envelope and instead of sticking the stamp on the letter he pasted it on the back of the cockroach. When he lifted his finger the stamp ran across the table, down to the floor, up the wall into a crack.

Watching his stamp disappear he said to himself, "Go home in two weeks! I'll be lucky to get there in two years."

Dave McReynolds in the Friona Star: Art Drake says there is more than one optimistic farmer in this area.

Art told him the same seed had zoomed to $14 per hundred now.

"Well, maybe that isn't too bad," the farmer replied. I'm going to plant this where I had planted seed that cost $20 the first time.

Memories of '36

Davis Price Finds Jar in Fence That Tells Story of Erection

The interest in rocks of a 14-year-old Canyon youth has turned up a cache in an old rock wall on the West Texas State College campus which will call to the minds of a number of former West Texas athletes the events of more than 20 years ago.

While chipping around one of the gate posts of the wall, which is being torn down by campus maintenance crews, Davis Price discovered a "fruit jar" in which he found a sheet of paper and 11 small pieces of cardboard. They had been placed in the post Jan. 22, 1936.

Headed "West Texas State Teachers College, Department of Physical Education," the paper reads, "In the summer of 1934, Coach Al Baggett, with the help of Mr. Cliff Jarrett, President of the Athletic Committee, started promoting natural rock fixtures on the campus of W.T. These improvements were made through the untiring efforts of these two men, Assistant Coach—Bob Cox, General Supervisor—E. C. Shuman, Chief Rock Layer—Mr. Gus Miller, and the following athletes:"

Listed are 45 men with their hometowns, and concluding the paper were the names of Dr. J. A. Hill, president of WT, Travis Shaw, business manager, Gene Whitman, "all around flunky," Lorenzo Wirt, college electrician, and R. A. Terrill, college engineer.

On the cards were the names of Dr. Hill, G. T. "Gus" Miller, who still lives in Canyon, Terrill, Shuman, the late Si Marchbanks, and R. D. Wheelock, a WT senior in 1936 who lives in Canyon.

Other names on the cards were J. S. Harrison, a building repairman on the campus, Penrose Walker, "mortar mixer," A. G. Nickelson, "rock mason," W. D. Boland, "yard man," and Dorris Vester, Works Progress Administration project clerk.

★

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Borden Price, the youth gave the mementoes to his father who turned them over to the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum to add to the museum's collection of items concerning the history of the college.

Dr. Hill does not remember who was responsible for placing the materials in the post, but he said that it was probably R. A. Terrill, for "it was just like him to do such things."

★

The rock work on the walls around the stadium area and on several buildings including the agriculture building and laboratory, old Terrill Hall, the publications building, and the stadium was begun in 1934 and the last of it was done in about 1941, according to Dr. Hill.

★

Most of the work was done through the National Youth Administration and the Works Progress Administration, he said. The outdoor swimming pool, also of rock construction, was done by the Public Works Administration, Dr. Hill said.

★

"Most of the rock was hauled to the campus from the canyon north of the campus and from the breaks near Vega," Dr. Hill said.

The walls around the stadium area and two small buildings in the area are due to be torn down to make room for new classroom buildings in the central part of the campus.

Names appearing on the paper included Willie Boedeker, now of Levelland and president of the WT Ex-Students Association, Stina Cain, junior high school principal in Clarendon, George Caviness of Amarillo, Ezell Champion, now of Tyler, Lawrence Clark, now of Lubbock, Curtis Clement, now of Cloudcroft, N. M., George Ray Colvin, Quitaque High School principal, Jack Davis, now of Fullerton, Calif., Ronald Davis, now of Tucumcari, Lwood Davis, athletic director at Connecticut State Teachers College, Oscar Hinger, now of Canyon, Leo Jackson, now of Irving, Jack Jennings, now of Canyon.

John Lee, now of Alamogordo, N. M., Marvin "Kotton" McGehee, now of Happy, Clinton Meek, now of Nocona, Floyd Murry, now of Orange, Calif., John Rankin, now of Pampa, Tom Slack, now of Perryton, Frank Van Noy, now of Amarillo, Toby Waggoner, now of Plainview, Craig Walling, now of Las Cruces, N. M., Ben Arthur, now of Gruver, Carroll Berryman, now of Lubbock, Bill Blaine III, now of Amarillo, Edd Brooks, now of Dimmitt, Henry Brotherton, now of Colorado Springs, Colo.

Melvin Cullender, now of Bartlesville, Okla., Henry Fields, now of Claude, Monroe Horton, now of Ventura, Calif., Lee McLaury, now of Sonora, Gordon Murray, now of Arlington, Va., Lloyd Miller, now of Hartley, Milton "Chick" Neilson, now of Larchmont, N. Y., Raymond Shackelford, now of Burbank, Calif., and F. A. Thomas, now of New York City.

Two of the men whose names appear are now deceased. They are Si Marchbanks, who was professor of agronomy at Mississippi State College, and Joe Blaine, who lived in Amarillo.

Others whose present addresses are not known were Conway Butler, Lewis Gibson, B. F. Taylor, Henry Ayres, Francis Gilbreath, L. O. Speer, and J. C. Turner.

Exhibits Shown At Club Meeting

Exhibits of members' projects during the past year highlighted the June 9 meeting of the Palo Duro-Rusk Home Demonstration Club in the home of Mrs. Edd Reynolds with Mrs. Althea Douglas as hostess.

Among the items on display were dresses, net table cloths, textile painted towels and wash cloths, quilts, needlepoint purses, mosaic tile table, aprons, crocheted hot pads, lamp shades, doilies, cutwork table cloths, luncheon cloths, felt skirts, and needlepoint pictures.

I. D. Weldon of Canyon demonstrated the care of sewing machines and use of attachments.

Delegates to the district Texas Home Demonstration Association meeting in Wellington in April reported.

POOR TRADE

People who spend all their time demanding their rights seldom have time to take advantage of their privileges.

Many have found that there's a world of difference between a good sound investment and an investment that sounds good.

The man who is too busy to go to the polls usually has plenty of time to complain about his government's policies.

Post Office Details Methods Of Fighting Obscene Mailings

(This is the fourth in a current series of articles published in the public interest on the growing menace of obscene mail, and what can be done about it.—The Editor)

A four-fold program of action by the United States Post Office Department, aimed at stamping out the giant mail order obscenity racket, is reported by Postmaster Marion Higdon.

Under the leadership of Postmaster General Arthur B. Summerfield, he said, local postal officials throughout the country are cooperating in carrying out a highly intensified drive against this "vicious misuse of the mails."

The Post Office program is:

1. To draw maximum public attention to the menace of this racket.
2. To urge parents to help apprehend the mailers of filth to their children.
3. To help mobilize community support behind adequate law enforcement of local ordinance or state laws when these purveyors are apprehended and brought to court.
4. To rally public opinion behind new and stiffer legislation on obscenity.

Coupled with this program for gaining public and legislative cooperation, the Post Office is greatly enlarging its efforts to apprehend mailers of obscene materials and, wherever possible, to bar their use of the mails or bring about their prosecution.

Postmaster Higdon reported that highly encouraging progress has been made in bringing public attention to the growing menace of the obscenity racket. Postmaster General Summerfield has expressed deep gratification for the interest that newspaper publishers and editors, and leaders of national organizations and civic groups, have shown in advising parents and the public generally of the growing mail order obscenity menace and telling them how they can help eliminate it.

Postmaster Higdon stated that parents can give specific and much needed assistance by reporting immediately to the local postmaster any receipt of obscene or porno graphic literature addressed to their children. He stressed the importance of saving both the material and the envelope and of either bringing these items to the postmaster's office or mailing them to him.

This cooperation by parents, he emphasized, is essential. "Since the Post Office itself never opens first class mail, we must depend upon the citizens into whose homes pornographic material is sent to provide the information that will enable us to apprehend the senders."

He also pointed out that the number and nature of public complaints involved any single mailer of pornographic materials.

Under a federal law passed by the Congress and signed by President Eisenhower last year, smut dealers can now be prosecuted in the communities where their mailed obscenity is received.

"It is especially important, therefore," he said, "that the citizens of any community insist upon adequate law enforcement of local ordinances and state laws which allow the affixing of maximum jail sentences and fines upon conviction."

"I believe that much good will come from these hearings," the Postmaster General said, "and I urge all parents and citizens who want to bring these barons of obscenity to justice to let their elected representatives know of their views.

"This monstrous assault on the nation's children is an arrogant and defiant challenge to the American people. I have complete faith that, once our people are properly aware of the terrible nature and scope of this challenge, it will be firmly and successfully met."

Wheat Quotas Are Announced

Marketing quotas for the 1960 wheat crop were proclaimed on June 1 by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson. This seventh successive proclamation of wheat marketing quotas is required by a wheat supply that is 99.6 per cent above the normal supply level.

The Texas share of the 1960 allotment will be 4,092,251 acres, which is nearly 7,000 acres less than the 1959 allotment of 4,099,094 acres.

Benson proclaimed a national wheat acreage allotment of 55 million acres, the minimum permitted by law, and announced State shares of the national allotment. He also set July 23, 1959, as the date for a referendum to determine producer approval or disapproval of quotas and announced a 39-state commercial and a 10-state non-commercial wheat-producing area for 1959.

If producers approve marketing quotas, under the proclamation announced June 1, the national average support price available to eligible growers in the commercial area will not be less than the minimum support to be announced before the referendum. On the basis of the present supply of wheat and present legislation, the legal minimum wheat support price for the 1960 crop would be at 75 per cent of parity. Individual farm marketing quotas will be the normal production or the actual production from the farm acreage allotment, whichever is larger.

The 1960 national wheat acreage allotment of 55 million acres is the minimum fixed by law and is the same as for the 1958 crop. If the allotments had been determined solely on the basis of the law's supply formula, the 1960 allotment would have been zero acres.

At least two-thirds of the producers voting in the referendum on July 23 must approve quotas for the 1960 crop if they are to be in effect. Growers who will have more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest as grain in 1960 in any one of the 39 commercial wheat States come under the regulation of quotas and will be eligible to vote in the referendum.

How Times Do Change

By Representative Walter Rogers
18th Congressional District

On Dec, 7, 1941, the Japanese, in a sneak attack, all but sank the Hawaiian Islands. For several years thereafter this country and Japan were in a life and death struggle that ended only when this country had developed the atomic bomb at a cost of some 2 billions of dollars and dropped one on Hiroshima and Nagasaki — a war in which billions of dollars went down the drain and which, above all, destroyed thousands upon thousands of lives if the youth of this country and dashed to oblivion many of the hopes and prayers of their loved ones.

Less than 14 years after the forced surrender of Japan, we find a complete reversal in attitudes. Japan is now seeking world markets and is trading on a very friendly relationship with this country. In fact, she is presently exporting to this country goods in the approximate amount of $700 million per year. She is not entirely satisfied with this arrangement and would like very much to increase it, because she has cheap labor and can obtain many raw materials at prices below the cost of such materials in this country.

By combining her cheap labor with the materials, she can produce and deliver to this country many products at a much lesser price than the same product can be manufactured and sold here. Therefore, she looks upon this country as a vast potential market for everything from electronic equipment to dried fish. In order to expand her sales in this country and to protect the export volume already attained, she has been seeking influential counsel in this country.

It has been reported in the metropolitan press of New York and Washington that she has employed the former governor of New York and a man who twice unsuccessfully ran for the Presidency of the United States — none other than the well-known Thomas E. Dewey — at the alleged fee and expense figure of $200 thousand dollars.

It has been rumored that Dewey has denied this connection, but it is well known that negotiations have been going on between Dewey and the Japanese government for sometime. Apparently the old saying, "politics makes strange bedfellows," includes international as well as domestic politics.

The Wheat Bill

The House of Representatives last week passed, by the very close vote of 188 to 177, the controversial Wheat Bill — controversial because there had been much misrepresentation about the whole story. In the past six years the Secretary of Agriculture has continued to depress wheat prices which, in turn, increased wheat production and brought about one of the greatest surpluses in our history.

The storage charges alone have become staggering. The President began to needle the Congress to do something about the wheat situation that his own Secretary of Agriculture had created.

The Congress, after long and exhaustive hearings, came forward with a bill which would do what the President had sought; that is, it would measurably reduce the surplus. In other words, it would reduce production by 25%, or some 480 million bushels during the two years it is applicable. It was designed to lower the cost of the wheat program during that period by more than one-half billion dollars.

At the present time the wheat farmers of this nation participating in the program are allowed to plant 55 million acres of wheat. In the bill that passed the House, these same farmers would be allowed to plant only 41 million acres of wheat. The cut-back production would be supported at 90% parity, in order to prevent placing many wheat farmers in bankruptcy because of the drastic acreage allotment reduction. There is much more in the bill, but space will not permit its insertion here.

The debate did bring out some interesting facts and answers to the scathing denunciation to which the American farmer has been subjected by the metropolitan press and many of the slick magazines in the last several years. For instance, the people living in the cities have been led to believe that the American farmer was getting rich at the expense of the city dweller in prices that the city dweller was paying for bakery products. Here are the facts: Between 1948 and 1958 the cost of wheat and other ingredients in a loaf of bread declined 12% at the farm, while during the same period processing and marketing margins increased by 55%.

This means that during the 10- year period the cost of a loaf of bread increased by the sum of five and four-tenths cents or 39%. The price of a bushel of wheat during that time declined by the sum of 26 cents or 13%. The price of wheat in a one pound loaf of bread is only two and two-fifths cents, a loaf of bread that is now selling at more than 20 cents in many stores.

This gives you actual information that definitely proves the conclusion that any rise in the price of a loaf of bread bought by the housewife is not due to any money received by the farmer. The propaganda that the wheat farm program was responsible for high prices of bakery products is a myth and should be so branded by those discussing the subject. Although the bill which passed the House will cadse some hardships among many of the wheat producers, it will be a long step toward solving the surplus problem. I sincerely hope that the President will not permit political expediency to dictate a veto.

RAMBLING AROUND

DOYLE G. THOMAS

Farmers have really become alarmed over this bindweed problem. Records in the ASC office show that more bindweed control practices have been carried out this year than any year in the past.

The new Benzoic Acid has probably been one of the major reasons for this since it puts the cost of control down in reach of most farmers' pocketbook. Farmers with a bindweed problem will be interested in knowing that Benzoic Acid is now available in pellet form. This was set up in our Handbook last week. The pellet form can be applied easier on smaller plots and is ideal for use around cotton. A small handspreader is available for about $14. Fairly accurate amounts can be applied.

The barley loan rate for Randall County has been set at 80 cents per bushel. This rate is based on farm storage and if the barley is stored in a public warehouse, the storage will need to be deducted to arrive at the net to the farmer. The 80 cent rate compares to a 97 cent rate last year.

Acreage of barley is considerably smaller this year than last because of the drought and freeze, however, it is expected that the quality will be much better.

The referendum on wheat will be held on July 23. Farmers will decide in this referendum if marketing quotas will apply on the 1960 crop. The level of price support will also depend on the outcome of the voting. The County Committee decided in a recent meeting to open polling places in all seven communities in the county. Further information will be forthcoming on this very important referendum.

Fruits Lead List Of Plentiful Foods

Fresh plums top the July list of plentiful foods in the Southwest, as California's new crop is estimated at 64 percent more than last year.

Peaches, lemons and limes are other fruits on the list. Eggs will continue plentiful, as will ice cream and small sized turkeys. Summer vegetables will show up in wide array throughout the area.

Peanut butter and vegetable fats and oils complete the July list of plentifuls, as announced by the USDA's Southwest Food Distribution Division, Dallas. Each item is expected to be in heavier-than-normal supply and menu planners usually will find it economical to rely heavily on these foods.

Atkinson-Cain Double Ring Rites Read Tuesday by Bride's Father

Dr. Strauss Atkinson, pastor of the First Baptist Church, read the double ring ceremony uniting his daughter, Lynn, and Walter Dale Cain of Wildorado, in marriage June 23 at 7:30 p. m. at the First Baptist Church.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cain of Canadian. Dr. and Mrs. Atkinson live at 1719 Third Avenue.

The white satin draped choir rail was accented with garlands of maidenhair fern and centered with a large branched arch covered with maidenhair fern with clusters of white calla lilies. Large urns of calla lilies and both 7-bract and spiral candelabra flanked the central arch. Trees styled in the manner of the branched arch were at either side. A screening of jade foliage covered the choir loft.

Rosemary McDonald of Sherman was bridesmaid and Mayla Atkinson of Canyon, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor. They wore identical white silk sheath dresses with petal overskirts and their headdresses were white taffeta with circular veils of green tropical foliage and white stylized rosettes.

The flower girl, Cindy Elkins of Hart, wore a white organdy dress trimmed with white lace. Her headdress and bouquet were similar to that of the bridesmaid and maid-of-honor.

Clyde Ray Cain, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsman was Frankie Rainey, and Ben Byrd was ring bearer.

Bill Waddell of Kermit and Jack Coward of Amarillo were head ushers, assisted by Jozach Byrd, George Blackwell, Bernard Warren and Bill Adams.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of silk peau de sole fashioned on princess lines. The low necked bodice was outlined in applique of re-embroidered French Alencon lace with quaint elbow sleeves. The bouffant skirt was enhanced with flower garlands of re-embroidered lace forming a back panel which fell into a chapel sweep.

Her veil was of hand-made Vienna lace appliqued on French illusion. It had scalloped edges and was worn madonna style. The bride carried a cascade arrangement of white butterfly roses with garlands of English ivy.

A reception followed in the Baptist Student Center.

For the wedding trip to Colorado, Mrs. Cain chose a two-piece suit of white imported swiss cotton with April pink accessories.

The bride, a 1957 graduate of Canyon High School, has attended West Texas State College and Hardin-Simmons University. The bridegroom attended Wayland Baptist College at Plainview and is now a senior at West Texas State College. He is pastor of the Palo Duro Baptist Church in Wildorado.

Named honor camper at Camp Don D. Harrington in 1957, Nester has been on the Wilderness trip five years and made a Canadian Canoe trip in 1957. He is a brotherhood member of the Order of the Arrow.

Nester plays halfback for the Canyon Eagles and is a track team member. He was vice president of the CHS Student-Faculty Congress and is president-elect for next year.

Visitors in the W. T. Davis home were Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Davis Jr. and family of Rolling Hills, Calif., and Mrs. Gerald Seliantz and family of Lubbock.

When tax bills were finally passed by both the Texas House and the Senate, it was not dollars, but ideas that delayed agreement.

House bill was designed to raise about $150,000,000 over the next two years; Senate bill, about $160,000,000. Big difference was in where the money would come from. House bill was divided evenly between selective sales taxes and taxes on natural resources and corporation franchises.

Senate, which heard a long string of witnesses on the dangers of shutting prosperity-making industries out of Texas, changed the ratio. In its version, natural gas and corporations pay about 18 per cent of the tab; selective sales taxes, 82 per cent.

Senate voted a 15-15 tie on its bill, with Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey breaking the tie in favor of the bill.

Named to a free conference committee to adjust differences were Sens. R. A. Weinert, Seguin; Dorsey Hardeman, San Angelo; Charles F. Herring, Austin; Jimmy Phillips, Angleton; Bruce Reagan, Corpus Christi. Also Reps. V. L. Ramsey, Beckville; W. T. Oliver, Port Neches; Don Kennard, Fort Worth; Alonzo Jamison, Denton; George Cook, Odessa.

How They Stack

These items were hit, in varying degrees, by the House and Senate bills that went to conference committee:

★

CORPORATIONS — Senate, raise $10,800,000 by hiking the franchise tax from $2.25 to $2.75 per $1,000 capitalization. House, raise $12,000,000 by a new two-factor tax on interstate corporations.

NATURAL GAS — Senate, raise $8,000,000 by increasing the production tax from 7 to 8 per cent. House, raise $36,500,000 by lowering production tax to 5 per cent and adding a 5 per cent severance beneficiary tax.

MOTOR VEHICLE SALES—Both houses agreed on increasing sales tax from 1.1 to 1.5 per cent to bring in an additional $7,000,000 to $8,000,000.

★

CIGARETTES — Senate, raise $31,500,000 by boosting tax 3 cents a pack. House, raise $10,500,000 (estimated) by a 1 cent a pack increase.

UTILITIES — Senate, increase the tax on water, gas and electric utilities by 20 per cent, for an estimated $2,600,000. House, increase all other utilities to the telephone company rate of 2.3 per cent, for an estimated $8,000,000.

ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES—Senate, increase liquor tax from $1.40 to $1.65 a gallon, to raise $2,000,000. House, increase it to $2.25 a gallon for $7,000,000.

Wine, Senate increased tax by 20 per cent, for $201,000. House doubled it for $1,000,000.

Senate also tripled fees for selling beer and wine, doubled permits for liquor selling, for an estimated $1,600,000. House bill does not include this.

TOBACCO PRODUCTS — Senate, would tax all such products, except snuff, by 12.5 per cent, to raise $5,400,000. House tax is twice this.

SULPHUR — Senate voted to retain present rate. House would reduce from $1.40 to $1.03 per ton. There is disagreement as to whether production increase would offset the tax increase in total revenue received.

THEATER ADMISSIONS — Both Senate and House lopped this by about $120,000 a year.

SOUND EQUIPMENT — Senate added a 2.2 per cent sales tax on radios, televisions, hi-fi and stereophonic sets for an estimated $3,200,000.

★

BOATS — Senate added 1.5 per cent sales tax on boats and motors for an estimated $5,000,000.

★

Property Bill Nixed

For the second time this year, the House of Representatives has refused to sweep unclaimed property into the State Treasury.

Tie vote of 66-66 killed efforts in the Special Session. Vote that killed the bill earlier in the regular session was almost as close.

Gov. Price Daniel had urged the measure as a means of raising an estimated $25,000,000 for the State's ailing general fund. It would have required banks, oil and gas companies, insurance companies and others to turn over to the state any property belonging to persons who have been missing for more than seven years.

Bank lobbyists were blamed by Daniel for defeat of the bill. He said they must accept responsibility for the state's having to raise, through new taxes, the $25,000,000 the bill would have produced.

Bankers have contended the escheat procedure would undermine depositors' confidence in the safety of their deposits.

License Plan Studied

Economy forces are taking a good look at whether or not the state's licensing practices might be unnecessarily expensive.

Historically, the state has issued licenses annually. There's now some thinking that a lot of the licenses could just as easily be issued permanently, subject to cancellation for cause. Fees would still be collected annually, but a lot of time and money possibly be saved by not having to type out and mail a new document each year.

Such a procedure was authorized by the Legislature in regular session for insurance companies.

★

Some licenses probably could not be adapted to the permanent policy. Among these would be drivers licenses, hunting and fishing licenses, and auto inspection stickers.

Seven Run for Speaker

Now the count is up to seven in the House speakership race. Seventh man in the lineup is Rep. Frank B. McGregor of Waco. His announcement was made at a luncheon sponsored by the Waco Chamber of Commerce.

Six already in the race are Reps. Ben Glusing of Kingsville, Wade Spilman of McAllen, W. T. Oliver of Port Neches, L. DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi, Jerry Sadler of Palestine and James A. Turman of Gober.

Short Snoras

Radar traps must be test-checked for accuracy before a speeding ticket is valid, the Court of Criminal Appeals has held. Expert testimony in the case before the court had contended that as much as a 20 per cent error can occur if the radar machine is not set up properly . . . Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Ben Ramsey's new daughter, Mariben, born June 8, officially became "princess of the senate" in record time. By unanimous vote, the honor was bestowed when she was just one day old.

'Share the Road and Arrive Alive' Is Theme of July 4th Campaign

"Share the Road and Arrive Alive" is the theme of the Department of Public Safety's program for the July 4 holiday, according to Maj. R. A. Crowder, commander of Region 5.

"To stay safe in traffic, the driver must be keenly aware that he's not the only one on the road. He is just one of many drivers, so he must keep in step with the others and share the road with them," Major Crowder said.

Crowder said this involves a willingness to share and the skill and judgment to do the right thing at the right time.

He listed guides to help drivers fit their driving to the pattern of traffic. The rules are:

Keep alert. Develop defensive driving. Study the road ahead for accident situations. The higher the speed the farther ahead your attention must be fixed.

Think ahead and plan emergency measures. Know your own and your car's capabilities.

Be adaptable. Get the feel of changing traffic, road and weather conditions and adjust your speed immediately.

Pace yourself by the traffic around you, including the traffic behind you. Don't race, lag or ride the bumper of the car ahead.

Take only your share of the road—in the proper place. Keep in the proper lane. Pass only when you see you have ample time and space to avoid cutting in and out. Signal all turns and lane changes.

Obey to the letter all traffic laws, signs, signals and the dictates of common sense and courtesy.

TEXAS

By
BOYCE HOUSE

O. Henry worked in the General Land Office of the State of Texas from Jan. 12, 1887 to Jan. 21, 1891. He was an assistant compiling draftsman and his salary was $100 a month. These four years have been called the happiest of his life.

He wrote bits of humor for newspapers and magazines. "The Final Triumph" and "A Slight Inaccuracy" he sold to "Truth" (New York) for a total of $6. An associate (Don W. Hollis, in the Austin American Statesman) in 1925 recalled Will Porter as "a quiet young chap."

A more detailed description pictures him as being five feet, six inches in height, weighing about 130 pounds, with coal-black hair, gray eyes and a long, carefully twisted mustache, his voice soft and musical — an inveterate storyteller but never relating a vulgar joke. His narratives often were in the first person and listeners wondered if they were true or invented. He said, "Never question the validity of a joke."

He caricatured visitors in the Land Office and Imbellished maps with sketches, sometimes humorous. Some of these maps (Webb, Kent and Tyler counties, for example) are still to be seen in the Land Office and, in the old Land Office building, now a museum, there is a desk which he used. On the desk is a large ink splotch; one likes to think that the light-hearted young draftsman was responsible.

O. Henry (although of course he was not yet known by that name) went hunting and fishing but showed little interest in shooting or in catching fish, enjoying rather the talk about the campfire.

His closest friend in the Land Office was Herman Pressler, who signed his note for $250 when O. Henry bought the press of "the Iconoclast" from W. C. Brann in Austin and established a humorous weekly, "Rolling Stone."

He sang in the chorus of St. David's Episcopal Church and also in the First Baptist choir. Miss Athol Estes was a member of the Southern Presbyterian choir and young Porter sang there also. At a ceremony, Miss Estes placed, in the cornerstone of the capitol, objects representing her high school class and Porter was present as a member of the Austin Grays.

On July 1, 1887, he and Miss Estes were married. His rival had been an enterprising young business man and it has been said that he was the figure on whom O. Henry based a character in "Cabbages and Kings" — the 'go-getter" who chartered a steamer and took a cargo of cockleburrs to a Central American country.

But this of course was much later.

O. Henry took the part of an able seaman in "Pinafore" and his wife was in the front line of the chorus in the old Millet Opera House on East Ninth. He would sometimes sit in the lobby of the Driskill Hotel as he waited for his wife to complete a singing rehearsal.

Their first-born, a boy, died. A daughter, Margaret, was born Sept. 30, 1889.

He drew on his service in the Land Office when he began to write stories. "Buried Treasure" was based on an experience of Land Office clerks, including O. Henry, in treasure-hunting in Pease Park. "Bexar Script No. 2692" is another story which had its origin in the recollections of the Land Office. "Witches Loaves" is indirectly derived from that source. And "Georgia's Ruling," we are told, was so frankly biographical of Land Commissioner Richard M. Hall that the author forbade its publication in book form and it was not until after his death that it so appeared.

14 Girls Attend Rainbow Sessions

Fourteen girls and six advisers from Canyon attended the Grand Assembly of Order of Rainbow Girls in San Antonio June 15-17.

Attending the sessions, held in the city auditorium, were Ocoee Johnson, Cheryle McClure, Linda Troth, Frances Kiker, Gloria Buchanan, Lynne Larson, Ann Warwick, Marie Dowlen, Dorothy Jane Crain, Kay Jarnagin, Judy Roberts, Karen Brewster, Judy Wilson, Margaret Lee Johnson, Mrs. Alleene Leake, Mrs. Velma Larson, Mrs. Cortez Dowlen, Mrs. Fern Kiker, Mrs. Juanita Warwick and Mrs. Faye Cannedy.

Attending for Happy were Mrs. Willa Elliot and Willia Jane Elliot.

Mrs. Leake served as a member of the Grand Executive committee and Margaret Lee Johnson was Grand Representative from Washington and Idaho.

The Canyon group went to San Antonio in a chartered bus, along with the Happy and Bovina representatives.

Highway Patrol Probed 15 Wrecks

The Highway Patrol investigated 15 accidents in Randall County during May, according to Sergeant D. W. Duggan of Highway Patrol Service.

A breakdown of the total shows eight accidents were property damage and seven personal injury with no fatalities. The accidents injured 15 and caused property damage of $13,740.

Duggan cautioned vacationers to be on their guard against speeders, drinking drivers, and drivers who disregard traffic laws. He also warned drivers to make sure they are never guilty of such offenses themselves.

'Teahouse' Starts Thursday Night

The hilarious John Patrick comedy, "The Teahouse of the August Moon" will open Thursday for a three-night run in the Branding Iron Theatre at West Texas State College.

Highly successful with long Broadway runs, with touring companies, and as a movie, "The Teahouse of the August Moon" is set in Okinawa during the days of the U. S. Army occupation. It is based on the novel by Vern Sneider, and the story deals with a young officer whose duty it is to teach democracy to the people of the village of Tobiki. He must also find means to make the village self-supporting.

Within a few days young Capt. Fisby finds himself the owner of a "Grade A" Geisha girl; the materials sent him for the construction of a school are being used to build a teahouse, and he, himself, in an effort to improve the economy of the village, begins selling the principal product, potato brandy, to all the surrounding Army and Navy officers' clubs.

★

The opening of the teahouse is the moment chosen by the stuffy colonel to inspect the village, and Capt. Fisby is threatened with a court martial. Ending of the play is a happy one, however.

In lead roles are John Lee Welton, Pampa graduate, as Sakini, the happy-go-lucky counselor of Fisby, Don Essary of White Deer, as Capt. Fisby, and Ann Smith of Dimmitt, as Lotus Blossom, the Geisha girl.

Director of the production is Robert L. Antrim, technical director of the BIT, who will direct summer theatre productions at WT in the absence of William A. Moore, WT dramatics director. Moore is continuing study toward his doctorate during the summer at the University of Michigan. Assisting Antrim will be James Hinkley Pampa senior.

★

Portraying the overbearing Col. Wainwright Purdy III will be Jerry Ballew of Perryton, and Ed McPherson of Masterson will be Sergeant Gregovich, and Jack Reynolds of White Deer will be Capt. McLean.

Others in the cast are Pat Hilton of Pampa, Jo Beecher of Dimmitt, Esther, Joshua, and Rosie Hanig, the children of Mr. and Mrs. David Hanig of Canyon, Guy Yates of Amarillo, Dean Preston of Amarillo, Robert Greever of Spearman, Morris Westberry of Dimmitt, Gary Watt of Dimmitt, Penny Cox of Amarillo, Billy Poindexter of Canadian, Kathryn Harrington of Shamrock, Carol Craig of Amarillo, Everal Fauske of Borger, Kim Williams of Plainview, and Mary Jo Maddin of Vernon.

Curtain time each night will be 8:15, and admission is 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for students. Reservations may be made through the WT speech department, phone OL5-3781.

LIPSTICK LOGIC

LIPSTICK LOGIC

BY LOUISE ALLEN

As sure as wasps and bumblebees are the pop stands that spring up in neighborhood yards during June.

Last week we found a handwritten 'ad' in the front screen, of an opening enterprise on the next street over. Pencilled on ruled notebook paper, it proclaimed: "COMING SOON! Monday, 1:00 P. M., A&B Kool-Aid Stand. Buy Kool, Kool-Aid. It's A-B-C Delicious. NOTICE: Every 25th person gets a free glass of Kool-Aid. Flavors: Strawberry, Raspberry, Cherry, Grape. Fit for a King." It was illustrated with a small comical face topped by a crown, colored with red crayon, and a kool, kool red crayola drink with ice cubes pencilled above it.

A few days later a more finished notice from the block below us appeared in the door. Done on a pale green mimeograph paper, a fourth-sheet size, it featured a line drawing of a snow cone. "Opens Thursday, 3 to 6 P. M. 5c and 10c. Orange, Strawberry, Lime, Grape." We passed this house the next afternoon and the entire front was outlined with bright-colored pennants. The snow-cone stand was set up in the carport. It's a lawyer's home, which reminds us that parents must have a good sense of humor to last out one of these commercial flurries during vacation time.

The first stand may not have survived till the first free glass was won. But some kids had a wonderful time preparing those ads. These little Americans, whetting their business instincts on money-making ventures during the summer, probably won't make a cent. Indeed, their parents stand to lose, what with wear and tear on the deep freeze, purchase of cones and drink mix. But the youngsters have gained experience they'll never forget.

At least it's a wholesome change from gunplay and tormenting the cat.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

Stop! Do not destroy your small grain residue!

Don't cut off your nose to spite your face. Before you destroy that small grain residue, stop to consider the benefits it will give you.

First of all, it serves as a good shade for the soil. The shade will reduce the soil temperatures several degrees which will reduce evaporation from the soil.

Secondly, the small grain residue acts as a blanket to break the force of the millions of rain drops that will fall on the soil. Each rain drop falling on bare soil breaks away a few soil particles that can easily be washed or blown away. The force of the rain drops will pack the soil to such an extent that more water will run off instead of soaking into the field.

Third, the humus added by the decomposition of the residue acts as a sponge to make the soil soak up and hold more water.

Fourth, the small grain residue left on the surface of the soil will eliminate the possibility of the soil blowing next spring. The residue will break the force of the wind and keep the soil tied down.

The supervisors of the Randall-Potter Soil Conservation District suggest that you try the following experiment to see for yourself that a cover on the ground is a benefit to you.

Some afternoon when the temperature is near 100 degrees, pick a place where the soil is bare. One part of the soil, spread out a burlap bag or two; leave a spot of the same kind of bare soil uncovered. Now pour the same amount of water on the burlap bags and on the bare soil. After about one hour dig holes where you poured the water. Which spot was wet the deepest?

Robinsons Feted On Anniversary

A golden wedding anniversary reception was held Sunday for Mr. and Mrs. Elbert C. Robinson at the home of their son, Edgar Robinson of Happy.

Rose Clark and Elbert Robinson were married in Liberty, Mo., and moved to Texas in 1909. They have been residents of Randall County since 1932.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson have six children, all present Sunday. They are Mrs. Mary Pyeatt of Canadian, Mrs. Irene Bogle of Beverly Hills, Calif., Mrs. Lillian Mathis and Mrs. Esther Gerhart, both of Long Beach, Calif., John Robinson of Panhandle and Edgar Robinson of Happy.

The couple also have eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Cottage Cheese Handy in Recipe

Call it Dutch, call it baker's or call it pot. By any name, cottage cheese is still the same fine milk product it was in colonial days.

Settlers from Holland and Germany introduced the art of making cottage cheese to this country. Their skill for making and using "Smearcase" has been passed down from generation to generation.

Here's one of their recipes that has become famous. It's called Dutch cheese cake. It's an inexpensive, but elegant dessert, calling for 1 pound cottage cheese, ¼ cup milk, ⅓ cup sugar, grated rind and juice of 1 lemon, 1 pie crust, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup chopped raisins, 3 eggs beaten and 2 tablespoons melted fat.

Bake the crust in a deep pan until a delicate brown. While it's baking, press the cheese through a fine sieve. Add first the milk, then the sugar and salt and the raisins; next the beaten eggs, melted fat, lemon juice and grated rind. Stir until mixed well. Fill the baked crust with this. Bake in a moderate oven until firm in the center—about 15 or 20 minutes.

Cottage cheese is no longer confined to areas settled by the Dutch and Germans, for it is sold in every community in the country.

Since 1925, per capita consumption has risen from less than a pound to nearly 3½ pounds, says the Texas Extension Service.
